Cancer affects the entire family, not just the person with the disease. When a parent, sibling, or any loved one faces cancer, it's not unusual for a child to feel upset, sad, confused, or angry. Kids' Circle aims to help them cope with such emotional and social challenges, reassuring them that they are not alone. It is tailored for children aged 5 to 13 whose loved ones are impacted by cancer. In Kids' Circle, your child will have fun, share experiences, and learn alongside other children in similar situations. Group activities encompass play, art, discussions, and music. Snacks will be provided for an enjoyable experience. The program is facilitated by mental health professionals who specialize in supporting children and families dealing with cancer. All services provided by CSCVWSB are offered free of charge.

Kayo Matsumoto, MS, LMFT is a licensed psychotherapist with 13 years of experience working with people impacted by cancer and the Program & Clinical Director at CSCVWSB. Talia Johnson is an MA in Clinical Psychology candidate and CSCVWSB's clinical staff.
