NO COST TO PEOPLE IMPACTED BY CANCER

Joining a breast cancer support group offers emotional support, understanding, and empowerment for individuals facing this diagnosis. Through discussions and shared experiences, participants can reduce isolation, learn coping strategies, and gain knowledge about treatment options. Active involvement in recovery, stress reduction, and accessing resources are key benefits of joining such groups. Together, members can find strength, hope, and resilience on their journey toward healing. An orientation attendance and a brief preparation interview are required before attending.
